THREE BOOKS · PLANTING MEANINGFUL SEEDS IN LITTLE HEARTS

Founder and author: Joseph Mutabazi

WELCOME FROM THE FOUNDER

Planting seeds, one book and one little heart at a time.

My journey into children's publishing began with something beautiful and personal: my daughter's eagerness to read whenever she saw me reading. Watching her reminded me that children are influenced by what they see in the people around them. I wanted to become more than someone who encouraged them to read. I wanted to become their first inspiration in writing books.

I also noticed that many families in my community did not regularly have children's books to read with their children. I realized that some children who wanted to read simply did not have enough books available to them. I wanted to contribute to changing that.

My desire is to create books that bring together biblical teaching, meaningful stories, and practical learning. I hope they become useful resources for parents, teachers, churches, schools, and communities, and that they help children love reading, grow in character, and learn things that matter.

The seeds we plant in children's hearts today can influence the people they become tomorrow. Little Seeds Children's Books is my commitment to planting those seeds, one book and one little heart at a time.

ABOUT LITTLE SEEDS

A small seed with a big purpose

Little Seeds began at home. The name reflects a simple belief: every book can plant a meaningful seed in a child's heart and mind, and seeds grow slowly, quietly, and for years.

Our mission

To create engaging, educational children's books that help young readers discover biblical truths, develop good character, cultivate curiosity, and build a lifelong love of reading.

Our vision

A trusted children's publishing brand serving families, churches, schools, and communities around the world, so that every child can learn and read.

OUR CORE VALUES

Biblical faithfulness
Christian teaching consistent with Scripture

Educational excellence
A clear learning objective in every book

Integrity
We do not copy other authors' content or illustrations

Creativity
Original stories and illustrations

Accessibility
Children with different reading abilities and backgrounds

Quality
Careful review of manuscripts, art and print production

Consistency
A recognizable identity and standard

Service
Making books available to children who need them

TWO PUBLISHING LANES

1 Christian and Biblical Education

Books that teach biblical truth faithfully and simply, encourage faith, and support Christian families and churches.

2 General Education and Children's Literature

Books that help every child learn, explore, develop character, and enjoy reading.

OUR PUBLISHING VISION

Books that serve families, churches, schools, libraries and communities

Little Seeds Children's Books is a children's publishing initiative committed to creating meaningful, engaging, and age-appropriate books that help children discover important truths, develop godly and positive character, cultivate curiosity, and build a lifelong love of reading.

Our goal is not simply to publish books. It is to make meaningful learning accessible and to plant seeds that can influence children's lives for generations.

Families

Stories to enjoy together, with ideas and lessons children can remember.

Churches

Faith-based books for biblical learning, discussion and character formation.

Schools

Books that encourage literacy, curiosity, discovery and positive values.

Libraries

Quality picture books that invite children to read and explore.

Communities

Making quality children's literature accessible, especially to children with limited access to books.

OUR FOUR PUBLISHING PILLARS

Faith and Biblical Understanding

Introducing children to God, Scripture, prayer and Christian living.

Character and Life Lessons

Kindness, honesty, courage, responsibility, compassion and friendship.

Knowledge and Discovery

Exploring nature, science, language, numbers, history and creativity.

Reading and Imagination

Stories and activities that build reading confidence and curiosity.

The Little Boy Who Learned to Share

A Story About Generosity, Kindness, and God's Love

BY JOSEPH MUTABAZI

ABOUT THE BOOK

Kito loves mangoes. When his friend Amara asks for one, he decides to keep every mango for himself. But soon, Kito discovers that having something all to yourself does not always bring happiness. With gentle wisdom from his mother and a lesson from the Bible, Kito learns that sharing can turn an ordinary day into something wonderful.

OUR CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING COLLECTION

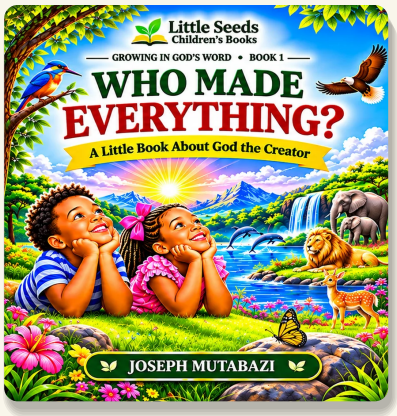

Christian and Biblical Education

Books that teach biblical truth faithfully and simply. Our Christian publications are rooted in Scripture, because we believe children can learn foundational biblical truths when they are presented accurately, simply, and meaningfully.

This lane is written to support Christian families, churches and Sunday schools.

WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT

- Faith and Biblical Understanding: books that introduce children to God, Scripture, prayer and Christian living
- Christian teaching consistent with Scripture and accurately presented
- Clear, age-appropriate language and thoughtful illustrations
- Support for parents, teachers and Sunday school leaders, who are partners in a child's learning

Who Made Everything?
Growing in God's Word, Book 1

The Little Bird Who Lost Her Way Home

Faithful to Scripture

Christian teaching must be consistent with Scripture and accurately presented.

Clear about its purpose

A biblical teaching book should identify itself as Christian, so families and churches know what they are choosing.

A partner for the church

Books that support parents, teachers and Sunday school leaders in guiding children.

EXAMPLE: GROWING IN GOD'S WORD

Our collection for children ages 4–8 introduces foundational biblical truths through clear teaching, engaging illustrations, Scripture, questions, activities and prayer. Book 1 is Who Made Everything? A Little Book About God the Creator.

OUR GENERAL CHILDREN'S LITERATURE

General Education and Children's Literature

Books that help all children learn, explore, develop character, and enjoy reading. This lane shares the same commitment to quality, age-appropriate language, thoughtful illustrations, educational value and accessibility.

Curiosity. Learning. Character. A love of reading.

The Little Boy Who Learned to Share
A story about generosity, kindness and friendship

Character and Life Lessons

Stories and practical lessons that encourage kindness, honesty, courage, responsibility, compassion, friendship and respect.

Knowledge and Discovery

General educational books that help children explore nature, science, language, numbers, history, creativity and the world around them.

Reading and Imagination

Engaging stories, creative activities and books that develop reading confidence, imagination, comprehension and curiosity.

OUR COMMITMENT

Each book should clearly communicate its purpose. A general educational book should communicate its learning objectives honestly. As the catalogue grows, this lane will grow with it.

FOR FAMILIES, CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS

Books made to be read, shared and talked about

Children are the readers, and the adults who guide them are partners. Here are practical ways our books can be used.

Family reading

Read aloud together at bedtime or story time, then talk about what the story means.

Sunday school

Open a lesson with a story, a Bible verse to remember, and a question for the class.

Children's ministry

Use a book's theme as a starting point for a short lesson, prayer or craft.

Classroom reading

Share a picture book as a read-aloud and invite children to ask questions.

Libraries

Add quality picture books with clear learning goals to children's shelves and story times.

Discussion and activities

Ask the questions, try the activities and learn the memory verse together.

EXAMPLE: WHO MADE EVERYTHING?

Who Made Everything? includes questions for little learners, a memory verse to say together, a drawing activity, a prayer, and a note for parents and teachers with Scripture references for further reading and a discussion suggestion.

PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Let’s help more children discover great books

Little Seeds is built on partnership with the people who guide children. We would welcome conversations with:

- Churches
- Christian schools
- Libraries
- Parents and educators
- Community organizations
- Book distributors and publishing partners

AN INVITATION

Tell us about your church, school, library or organization.

We would be glad to hear about the children you serve and what you have in mind. Contacting us does not create any commitment. No partnership program is in place yet, and we will be clear about what we can and cannot do before anything is agreed.
